“ David will be remembered by many as a servant, and that he was and yet much more. As one of his nephews in my early years I remembered him as my fun loving uncle who cared deeply for others. He would play the family domino game with grace as his father Jim usually found a way to win. But like his father he was a man who cared and cared for others. As a young man I remember him as a loving father as he transitioned turbulent times in mid-life and put his priorities in order, never forgetting was what important. Even during the turbulent times of his own life he always made time for people.

Throughout his life he watched over his younger brother JJ. He mentored him, cared for him, entertained him, and poured out his life so JJ could be all he could be. He watched over his mother in her later years and also his wife Lisa for many years.

Behind the servant is the virtue of courage. It takes courage to put others first. It takes courage to care for others who are suffering.

Behind the servant is the virtue patience. Patience is longsuffering and is not dependent on outcome but is born from selflessness and contentment.

Behind the servant is the virtue of humility. A man has not truly found his manhood until he understands his own place and values. David understood and from his humility could serve others.

Behind the servant is the virtue of faithfulness. David was faithful to his commitments to those close to him, literally laying down his life for others in selflessness.

David showed how to love others in practical ways and continued to until the day he went to be with the Lord. He leaves a great legacy to his daughter Kim, his grandchildren and the rest of us that he touched with one facet of God's love.

“ Dave was a true friend in every sense of the word. He took care of the people he loved, which says a lot because that is what he did for most of his life. There was a big crown waiting for him when he got to heaven. I will miss you my friend.

“ The last fun time we had with Dave and Lisa was several years ago, of course, due to Lisa's illness... Dave brought Lisa to our house in Wagoner, Oklahoma when she was still able to travel in the van with the lift... We got her into the house and proceeded to watch BEDLAM football!!!! We are OSU fans and of course, they are on the other side..Amanda and Shane, Kathy and Jim and the gang from Wagoner had a blast!!! There are more memories, but this is one that I can share! Hahaha!! Good times! RIP Dave, with Lisa.

“ David was my dear friend for many years. We worked together at SWBT. we were in partners in a fishing cabin in Canada. We both loved to fish and enjoyed our trips. Dave was always a care giver, he cared for most of his family all of the time. He was a very giving person. I will miss him greatly. Phil Moffitt
