“ Can't tell you how much your passing hurts. It was only a few days ago that we talked on facebook. Watching you grow up, was like watching my own sons, grow up. You were much more than a nephew.

I remember when you and Matthew decided to walk miles to school, crossing numerous busy highways. And then wondered why your mother and I were so upset! After all you were only an hour late and you made it there, ok. (Guess it didn't matter that you were only 6 and 5 at the time)

Or when you were being naughty and I corrected you- you said "Aunt Cin, I have a mom" my reply "Good for you, so do I" "Now knock it off"

I can remember how you loved spending time, tearing apart and building things with William. He was the dad you always wanted and the one you needed.

How on your graduation, you spent all of your money on something for your mom and then didn't have money to pay a fine at school – in order to get your diploma.

Aunt Cin, can I borrow $20 so I can pay the fine and leave for the Navy?

Or when your boys were born....how proud you were!

My thoughts now are that you are no longer in pain and that you are watching over all of your friends and family.

Rest in Peace, young Nephew!

Love you lots!

Aunt Cin
