“ I met Kathy at Wal-Mart. She was always so personable and cheerful. We discovered that we had much in common. We enjoyed traveling, loved our grandkids, liked to cook, and our husbands went to school together. We became friends. She was always interested in, and concerned for, Brent and me. I was heartbroken when I learned she had ALS, because I knew of the journey she was facing. My mother and grandmother both had the horrific disease. I am thankful for her friendship. I am thankful for her kindness, and I'm thankful she no longer suffers. Praying for her family.
