“ My crazy yet loving best friend Mandy, I would never had imagine in all the world the day would come and you would be taking so soon. All the crazy and wild things we did together, and you get struck by a moving vehicle.. This makes no sense to me. We were supposed to grow old together still laughing and playing jokes & giving others things to gossip about, or even wheelchair racing down some hallway of a nursing home. We both married and had a family, even moved away and didn't have much contact in years, although the bond we shared no one will ever truely understand the love we had for each other. You were not just my best friend from childhood, you were my sister for life. I cant explain in words the way my heart feels knowing your gone & never coming back, and not being able to be their when you were laid to rest and got your Angel wings is a daily struggle for me. So many things I want and need to say to you, and I can't. Your death is not an easy thing for me to get over, and I can only pray that while your in heaven that God will let you know what you mean to me. I wished I had gotten to know Gabby better, so that I could share all the amazing things about her mom that I know, and share the memories we had with her. You will forever be a Beautiful & Free Soul. I Will Forever Miss You, & Will Never Ever Forget You Toots! Save a place for me, & give my Daddy a hug for me. Untill we meet again high in the sky, wrapped in the Arms of the Angels. I LOVE YOU SISTER!... TABBY
