I knew Mick when he lived in the desert. We had many good conversations about spirituality, etc. I lost contact with him a few years back. I am sorry to hear of his passing. May his memory be for a blessing.

I just found out Mick passed. He was a mentor a friend a therapist and a guidance counselor for all the lost youth in palm springs for over a decade. He sat at Starbucks before it was coffee bean he moved to. He was a shoulder. A place to stay. A true dear friend whom I will miss greatly. If the cancer didn't get him those damn cigarettes he smokes back to back finally caught up. Skydancers or some weird native brand I believe. I loved you like an uncle. A friend. A mentor. Guru and shrink. You were an amazing man and may your soul live other either by your books which I will now be purchasing to make sure they survive this online world we live in. Your were one of a kind my dear
